

Hello FSI

With regards to “To Big to Fail Banks”;

I do not support any form of “bail-in” of creditor’s deposits.

I fully support a Glass-Steagall type of banking separation of people’s deposits, savings, commercial banking, legitimate debts, pensions and mortgages from the more risky investment banking, shadow banking, derivatives, shares, CDO’s, MBS’s etc.

I also support the creation of a new National Bank which will provide credit for productive purposes such as the development of new technologies and large scale infrastructure e.g. water projects, high speed rail and agriculture.

Kind regards

Lorne McKinnon
