

To whom may be responsible:

In view of the financial catastrophes that have plagued the world for the last decade, I am strongly apposed to Australia Enacting a Bail-in Law. It is my view that all Australian private and business funds should be secure, life is hard enough without having to worry about our savings and superannuation. It has already taken a huge blow.

I am in agreeance with a Full Glass-Steagal banking alternative. The choice of higher returns with risk, should be left to the individual, the risk factor should not mandatory, as it could very well be if you allow a Bail-in law.
