

Currency (Restrictions on the Use of Cash) Bill 2019

My name is Scott and I am a 36 year old software developer from Sydney. A strongly oppose the propoed legislation for the following reason:

The public are not as stupid as the government may seem to wish. It doesn't take a genius to join the dots and see the real reason for the proposed bill– and that reason and the manner in which the bill is being slipped into law are more sinister than the problems the bill is supposed to combat. There is no use outlining the real motivation behind the bill as I am sure many other submissions to treasury will provide an ample discussion.

Does the treasury reaslise what this constant grind towards 0% interest rates and beyond will do to the notion of retirement in the coming decades?

Stop pandering to the IMF, BIS et al. Have some courage, engage your brains and start working on a new monetary system that adapts to aging, stagnating populations and economic growth whilst respecting the environnment. It is difficult but it is not impossible. Find some courage, take the initiative and get to work.
