

Shame. The Australian dream is dying. We should not have to work our selves to death before we can enjoy our retirement.

In the past I am appalled at the fact from my own experiences I was forced into using my employers Fund and not able to have the autonomy to decide for myself to have my money contributed to my choice of fund.

Then to make matters worse they defaulted my account to have debited Life insurance which I never requested with out my notification until I saw my statement. This infuriated me and I left the company only to find my funds had been eaten away by the time I rolled over my money.

I am a disgusted that we pay tax and pay tax again and fees on money we already have been taxed on and financiers making a fortune on our interest. Then there is no guarantee we will get our money back , no compensation when the markets crash. Sounds like a scam to me.

The public is tired of white collar criminals misappropriating our hard earned money and they should be made accountable for it.

So here is my vote
