

Dear Madam/Sir

I have just read Richard Denniss' brilliant article in today's Guardian – and I am absolutely APPALLED that this scenario of Australia's wealthiest individuals receiving huge amounts of money into their super whilst the lower income earners receive nothing exists. And I imagine many other readers are outraged as well.

I urge you, in the strongest possible terms, to do something – and something CONSTRUCTIVE about this inequality. And when I say 'constructive', I'm not suggesting you simply, 'have a bit of a think about it'. I mean actually DO something; take action – and take it pronto!

Regards
