

This is a bit ridiculous, any dividends received via the proposed changes is gone, spent not in the bank account. People live with the law as it is, retrospectivity is unfair. If any unfair change is made and if money has to be repaid it should be able to be repaid over the same period of retrospectivity. However the best option is leave it alone or at least from the date the legislation is past.

Ken Fowler