

Dear Sir, I wish to submit my disgust at the government's endeavours to make changes to the superannuation laws despite having said that no such changes would be made prior to the May election. They are liars and low-lives.

As a SMSF retiree I have worked hard to pay for my own retirement at no expense to the government. Despite this, you as representatives of this government are determined to bleed me of any autonomy to pay my own way. It is this government's intentions to socialize all retirees so they may never be free of government intervention.

No matter what the official legislation states, it is obviously the thin edge of the wedge to completely do away with all franking credits.

In the words of Kerry Packer, you waste so much of our taxes, why should we give you more!

I shall be forwarding a second letter under separate mail. I expect it to be answered in full in the same manner!

Robert James Gray
Self Funded Retiree