

I don't think there is anyone left in Australia that doesn't understand it is an individual/employer contribution to provide for the individual's retirement in lieu of the taxpayer paying that person a pension.

It is a worthy government initiated Scheme, that I have contributed to for 52 years without any veiled restating of the objective and unless it is broken, which Labour seems to think it is, it is best left as is to maintain people's faith.

Thanking you
