

Please treat this as a submission to the treasury worker survey: non-compete clauses and similar restraints are a real problem for the working class - switching jobs should be a right, but non-competes might be costing workers and not just financially. Thankyou, Keri James.